GENOCIDE is selective mass murder intended to destroy in whole or in part, a national, ethnic or 'racial' group.

Genocides involve killing members of the group, causing serious bodily or mental harm to the group, or deliberately inflicting conditions calculated to bring about the physical destruction of the group. (The United Nations definition of genocide, 1948)

In the 20th century alone the genocides in Namibia, Armenia, Nazi-occupied Europe, Cambodia, Bosnia and Rwanda have claimed many millions of lives.
